

Certificate Course in Employment Law

Employment law in the UK is changing.

TUC Education is introducing a new Certificate course to enable union reps to prepare for these changes in the best way possible 🎓

Employment law for trade union reps

The new course is designed for union reps who have already completed the TUC Stage 1 Union Reps course or its union equivalent. It is a practical training course that approaches the law, including the 2013–14 changes, from a workplace perspective and its principal concern is how knowledge and confidence in using employment law can improve workplace bargaining.

What does the course cover?

Rights at work

This section explores the basis for rights at work, explains how you can find out about them, and shows how to ensure they can be accessed.

Keeping, enforcing and improving rights at work

This section explores compliance and enforcement mechanisms – in theory and in practice.

Using employment law at work – a trade union approach

This section will develop your ability to use the law in representational, organising and collective bargaining situations.

Employment law project

Reps will be able to research and report on an aspect of employment law in the context of the workplace.

The course is available to reps across the UK. For details of where the course is running in your area, contact the appropriate regional education officer (see below) or search our course brochures at www.unionlearn.org.uk/tuc-education/latest
